HELP US LIMIT DAMAGE FROM THE OIL SPILL
AND RESTORE LOUISIANA'S COASTAL WETLANDS.

CORBIS

JOIN VANISHING PARADISE'S EFFORTS TO RESTORE COASTAL WETLANDS BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE.

Fishermen and hunters across the nation have a stake in the rapid loss of Louisiana's coastal wetlands.

For the more than 10 million ducks and geese wintering in the fertile marshes, to the world-class inshore and offshore fisheries - Louisiana's coastal wetlands are the key to sustaining Mississippi Flyway hunting and abundant Gulf Coast recreational fishing.

The BP oil spill has compounded the damage to this rapidly disappearing resource, which prior to the spill had already lost more than 2300 square miles of coastal marsh.

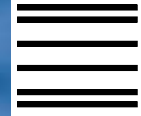

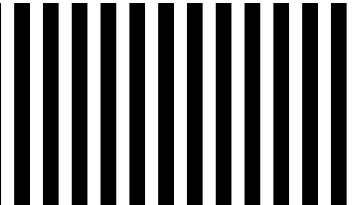

Only with your help can we put the Mississippi River back to work and use sediment to start rebuilding and restoring coastal marsh, ensuring future generations the same access and opportunities we share today.

Sign up today. It's FREE, and you can help restore coastal Louisiana and enter your name for a 2-day Louisiana duck hunting trip for two.
